

#git is a local system #github is a remote system so what is the use of git and github? It is commonly used for saving files, tracking changes, and collaborating on development projects. In recent years, GitHub has become the most popular social platform . for software development communities.